

Scott Bredow
Director
Strategic Buying Center
for Professional Services

Scott Bredow is a senior federal acquisition leader with more than 20 years of experience across the public and private sectors, specializing in research and development, professional services, and information technology acquisitions. He spent 19 years at the National Institutes of Health supporting complex, mission-critical scientific and operational programs through innovative, compliant acquisition solutions. Mr. Bredow currently serves as Director of the Strategic Buying Center for Professional Services within the Department of Health and Human Services Office of Mission Acquisition Solutions, where he leads enterprise professional services acquisition strategy focused on standardization, strategic sourcing, and category management to improve efficiency, accountability, and value across the Department.

Mr. Bredow holds a Master of Business Administration from Johns Hopkins University and a Bachelor of Science in Logistics and Transportation Management from the University of Maryland, College Park.