

Quentin T. McCoy
Executive Director
Head of Contracting Activity

Quentin T. McCoy is an innovative Federal Acquisitions expert with over 20 years of experience in public health, defense, security, and intelligence acquisitions, and over 24 years of public service. Mr. McCoy is the Head of Contracting Activity (HCA) for the Office of Mission Acquisition Solutions, within the Office of Assistant Secretary for Financial Resources (ASFR) at HHS. In this role Mr. McCoy oversees the procurement operations of HHS Office of the Secretary Staff Divisions and provides enterprise-wide procurement solutions for HHS common IT and Professional Services essential to advancing the department's health mission.

Prior to his current role, Mr. McCoy has been at the helm of federal cyber, AI, and emerging tech adoption missions – establishing and leading procurement organizations across the Department of Defense. Mr. McCoy began his acquisition career at HHS's National Institutes of Health supporting its nationwide health missions.

Mr. McCoy is a University of Tennessee alum (Go Vols!), holding an MBA in Aerospace and Defense, a BS in Accounting - Strayer University, AAS in Business Administration - Prince George's Community College, and is FAC-C certified in Contracting.